RCPNA General Meeting—March 31, 6-9 pm—Candidate Fair

All candidates who have filed for City Council positions 1, 2 and 4 and for Mayor by the March 10 deadline will have been invited to participate. As of early February, more than 30 candidates had filed, with at least another half-dozen expected to file, so it will be a very full evening.

In order to provide as much time as possible with the candidates, the meeting will start an hour earlier than usual, beginning with the mayoral candidates, who have another candidate fair to attend that evening.

The candidates will be given the opportunity to make a very brief opening statement, then respond to questions from the Board and neighbors (provided in advance online or at the meeting) will be presented to them. As the event nears, check our website or Facebook page for the latest information.

The meeting will be live-streamed and recorded for later viewing.

Because of the large number of candidates and very limited time, there will be no questions taken from the floor.

Parking will be available in the German American Society lot across NE Alameda.

*Parking may also be available in the Our Lady of La Vang Church lot directly west of the German American Society building; check for a sign at the curb. This lot will be locked at 9:30 pm.

Informational Meeting for Vietnamese Dual Language Immersion (DLI) Program

February 26, 6-7 pm

Rose City Park Elementary School Auditorium, 2334 NE 47th Ave.

Dual-language immersion education provides social, cognitive and academic benefits to children and prepares them to be successful in a global society. Portland Public Schools offers free programs in five languages, and the Vietnamese program is housed at Rose City Park Elementary School. This program is relatively new and usually has no wait list. Both native and non-native Vietnamese families are welcome to apply. Attending the February 18 program is mandatory in order to enter a DLI lottery.

The Vietnamese Immersion program currently serves students from kindergarten through fourth grade. The goal is for them to become bilingual and biliterate, and they learn to listen, speak, read and write in both Vietnamese and English. Students and parents do not need to know Vietnamese in advance to be successful in the program.

Meet the principal, hear about the program, meet other kindergarten parents and learn about the VDLI program. A Vietnamese family from the Overlook neighborhood that has two young children in the program will be present to answer questions, and is open to forming study/play groups, and to provide support for interested families. (Contact Sarah-Truclinh Tran at st.tran@gmail.com for more information.)

EPA SEEKS INPUT ABOUT CLEANER EMISSION STANDARDS

Comments Requested by February 20

In January, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking known as the Cleaner Trucks Initiative (CTI), describing the Agency's plans for establishing new emission standards for NOx and other pollutants for highway heavy-duty engines. Pre-proposal comments on the rulemaking are being solicited through February 20, 2020. The proposed rule can be viewed here and information about the Cleaner Trucks Initiative here.

EPA plans to issue a notice of proposed rulemaking in the late spring of 2020, with a final rule expected in calendar year 2021 and is recommending implementation to start in the Model Year 2027 time-frame.

Our Laws and Our Lungs

By TYLER HALL

Smoke in our air from Portland restaurants has become our problem, and we deserve better!

You may be familiar with it. Random billowing clouds of smoke from an unidentifiable source below the rooflines. Or in plain sight!

Most of the time we shrug our shoulders and continue sorting out our daily lives. Sometimes the smoke is closer than normal, and you wonder where it's coming from. If nearby—you stop to smell and really try to track it. Is it the nursery on Fremont? Maybe it's the Hollywood Library or maybe it's someone's house going up!?

When it's not an emergency in this city, a more likely culprit is a restaurant exhaust vent. There is a reason for it, and sadly, it is due to a loophole. A complicated regulatory environment without a rudder has gotten us to where we are today.

About indoor smoke inhalation—according to the US National Institutes of Health, indoor burning of cooking fuels such as wood are a significant risk factor for COPD (chronic obstructive pulmonary disease). (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC3266023/>)

Restaurant kitchens are like most kitchens, in that there are choices in the fuel source for cooking food, typically wood, charcoal, natural gas or electricity. In addition, food sometimes burns. So, along with the choice of cooking fuel, the method of preparation can also be a factor in restaurant emissions, which is unregulated once it leaves the restaurant. This is because Multnomah County regulates restaurants—but only the interior, and the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality regulates industrial emissions—but not restaurants. This creates a clear gap in regulation of external restaurant emissions.

Unfortunately, this leaves restaurants, customers, and local community members caught in the middle and left to sort it out for themselves. When that happens, what suffers most is the community, regardless of who “wins.”

In a recent example where this scenario played out, Mama Bird (in Northwest Portland) was temporarily shut down due to unhealthy amounts of smoke billowing out into nearby residences. This was resolved by the installation of an industrial scrubber, which cleans harmful smoke particles from the air before it is vented out. In our neighborhood, however, Du's Grill, which is located within blocks of two different school, has been emitting unscrubbed smoke for years.

The solve? There are a few that come to mind.

Industrial scrubbers remove particulate matter from smoke. A scrubber can cost $60,000 for the machine alone and more than $100,000 once installation and labor costs are tallied. They are expensive but should be part of the cost of doing business, if polluting the air with grilled meat in our communities is one's business.

Community engagement. Make it known to the managers and owners of businesses that do not do our air any kindnesses that it is not well received, and urge our business community to remain our allies in keeping Portland's air less polluted!

And, hopefully, the most lasting kind of solve, regulatory support from our politicians. Without their help to cleanup this regulatory gap, we won't be able to put in place clear and permanent safeguards to protect our air. We need the partnership of our local politicians to add this topic back onto the agendas of our city councils, and county and state government.

Air quality is an important thread of vitality that we all rely on to lead lives of health and happiness. When it comes to Portland's restaurants and the emissions that they create, let's make sure the food that we eat isn't also making us sick!

Residential Infill Project (R.I.P.)—Update

The City is reassessing the rules that govern the types of housing permitted in our neighborhoods. The changes proposed by this project would allow more housing units to be built in residential neighborhoods, provided they follow new limits on size and scale.

Changes would modify the single-dwelling zoning rules to better meet the changing housing needs of current and future residents. The project addresses increasing the range of available housing options while limiting the size of buildings and improving building design.

In January, in preparation for submitting written testimony, the RCPNA Board conducted a survey and submitted a detailed report to the City Council conveying the results. The Council received more than 500 pieces of written testimony on the Recommended Draft proposals and also heard live testimony from 140 citizens at two public meetings.

The Council is now reviewing the testimony to identify ways to modify the proposals. It held a work session with staff on January 29 to discuss technical amendments, which include:

- Changes to align the proposals with recently adopted projects for consistency
- Changes to align duplex allowances with state mandates in HB 2001
- Changes to respond to the SB 534 requirement to recognize certain substandard platted lots
- Creating a combined process for lot consolidations and property line adjustments.

Potential amendments may be found online at https://beta.portland.gov/sites/default/files/2020-02/summary_of_february_12_-_amendment_package_020620.pdf.

The Council was to discuss additional amendment concepts on February 12 to determine which concepts could be developed into formal amendment proposals, and will hold another public hearing in March to hear testimony on the final specific amendments.

Proposed Revision of City Code Section 3.96—Update

On January 9, the City Council heard from 35 people who had signed up to testify at the November 14 hearing but were unable to do so. No additional testimony was taken and no other new information was presented.

A January 30 work session to review the November 14 Resolution was postponed. Since the record remains open, residents may still submit written testimony. Testimony should refer to City Council Item 1053 and may be emailed to cctestimony@portlandoregon.gov or mailed in hard copy to Portland City Council, 1221 SW 4th Ave., Portland, OR 97204.

For more information, see <https://swni.org/article/proposed-revision-civic-engagement-city-code-396>.

Rose (Sandy Boulevard Bus) Lane Project

The City Council was expected to receive a presentation about the Rose Lane Project and consider recommendations for implementing the Rose Lane vision, at its February 13 meeting, which members of the public were encouraged to attend and at which testimony was to be accepted. The Rose Lane Project report was published in early February. Friends of Trees January Event and Update

By DAVID WHEELER

On Saturday, January 18, our neighborhood was busy planting trees. The Tree Planting is an annual event that Friends of Trees in Portland makes possible. This year Michelle Yasutake (Neighborhood Tree Specialist) from Friends of Trees was the organizer for our neighborhood. Tim Batog, the neighborhood coordinator from Sumner, and myself from Rose City Park were also able to help. Due to the number of trees to be planted, the RCP, Sumner and Madison South neighborhoods were combined.

There were 129 volunteers of all ages. A total of 119 trees were planted in the three neighborhoods, of which 68 were in RCP. Several local businesses generously donated food, including Starbuck's on Sandy, Sizzle Pie, Annie's Donuts and Safeway. Many neighbors also dropped off wonderful homemade foods for the volunteers. Everyone involved would like to thank all those from Friends of Trees for making this possible.

On a more personal note, there has been a change in the Rose City Park Neighborhood Coordinator for Friends of Trees. As some of you may know, David Gates, who has been the Neighborhood Coordinator for the past many years, has recently decided to step down from his position. He has done an amazing job keeping the neighborhood informed and donating hours of his time to raising awareness of the benefit of trees. David deserves a great deal of appreciation and I hope, if you see him in the neighborhood, you will acknowledge his efforts

As a neighbor and friend of David's, I have agreed to act as Neighborhood Coordinator for RCP. It should be a relatively easy change, as my name is also David—last name Wheeler. I have a long history of working with trees and look forward to helping in any way possible

The best way to contact me is by email to dwheel-erpx@gmail.com.

COMMUNITY SERVICES VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Multnomah County Community Involvement Committee (CIC)

There are two vacancies on Multnomah County’s Community Involvement Committee (CIC), which serves as the County’s advisory body on community engagement and involvement. The CIC plays a crucial role in bringing community voice into county decision-making, and CIC members engage in an ongoing review of the County’s community involvement policies and programs, bring community concerns to County leadership, and assist in facilitating communication between the County and the community.

The County is seeking applicants who have personal, professional and/or lived experience with communities typically underrepresented in decision-making; who bring a commitment to shared leadership, consensus-building, and working across difference; and who have a sincere interest in public service and community involvement. To learn more and start your application, visit <https://multco.us/oci/cic>. The deadline is 5pm on February 21. For assistance in completing an application or for any questions, contact the Office of Community Involvement at community.involvement@multco.us or call (503) 988-3450.

Portland BDS Adjustment Committee

Most development standards in the Portland Zoning Code may be adjusted through a discretionary Adjustment Review. Adjustment Reviews are administrative reviews with the decision made by a Bureau of Development Services land use planner. The decision of the planner can be appealed and, if appealed, a hearing is scheduled before the Adjustment Committee. The Adjustment Committee’s sole role is to consider these appeals in a public hearing setting and make final decisions.

The Committee consists of seven volunteer members, none of whom may hold public elective office. Members serve one four-year term, and are limited to a maximum of two terms. The Committee must include three persons representing the public at large; two members in either urban design, architecture or landscape architecture; and two members experienced in engineering, financing construction, management of buildings, or in and development. Members are appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by the City Council. Hearings take place at 2:30 pm on the on the first and third Tuesday of each month, but are held only if an appeal has been submitted. All hearings are held at 1900 SW 4th Avenue.

One of the positions currently vacant represents the public-at-large; the other represents urban design, architecture or Landscape Architecture. They will filled as soon as possible, and applications will be accepted on an open and continuous basis.

Applications should be submitted to the Office of Community and Civic Life (OCCL) with a cover letter or a resume describing the applicant’s interest, background and experience. The application form may be accessed through the Civic Life website or by calling (503) 823-4519 to request the form.

For more information about the Adjustment Committee, contact Douglas Hardy, of the Bureau of Development Services, at (503) 823-7816 or douglas.hardy@portlandoregon.gov.
